

DISC opens US Office

HAARLEM, THE NETHERLANDS (December 10, 2009) – DISC Archiving Systems B.V. (DISC), market leader in long-term optical storage, today announced the opening of its office in the USA.

The new subsidiary, DISC Archiving Systems Inc, will be a sales office for DISC and work directly with partners.

“Following the successful restructuring of the DISC business, the creation of a dedicated US office is a natural step in our strategy to offer direct support to our partners” said Kees Machielsen, Managing Director of DISC. Expanding and deepening our presence in the USA will be key to ensuring we take advantage of the many opportunities in the region.”

“This demonstrates our commitment to our North American partners and customers” said David Barrett-Hague, Head of Sales and Marketing. “ We will be investing in additional resources to continue the strong growth we have seen in this vital market.”, he added.
